Five Day Fiesta Sponsored By Mission Viejo's La Paz Plaza

La Paz Plaza in Mission Viejo celebrates the opening of its newest shops with a five-day fiesta, running Monday, July 17 through Saturday, July 22.

The fiesta will be highlighted Saturday when more than 50 prizes, ranging from haircuts and hams to an Acapulco vacation, will be given away.

The event was announced this week by Fiesta Committee Chairman William T. Wells, manager of the Mission Viejo Branch of United California Bank. Assisting Wells in planning the event are committeemen Kerry Bachital, manager of the local Thriftimart, and Albert Farnocchia, owner-manager of Plaza Home Center. The fiesta is being staged by the newly-formed La Paz Merchants Association.

New establishments recently opened or to be opened in time include Carriage Trade Fabrics, Butcher Shop Meats, Philip's Beauty Salon, Plaza Home Center, U.S. Post Office, and Viejo Barber Shop.

Among the other sponsors of the Fiesta will be those who moved in earlier, including La Paz Cleaners, Mission Florists, Mission Viejo Company, Morrison Drug Store, Thriftimart, Union Oil Co., and United California Bank.

Wells said that the committee has invited various civic, church, school, and social groups serving Mission Viejo to take part in the fiesta by erecting and manning booths featuring refreshments, Mexican food, and early California style games.

San Joaquin Board Requests Area Appointment to Tustin Union High School Board

An official letter was mailed by the Board of Trustees of the San Joaquin School District last week "respectfully requesting that thorough consideration be given to appointing a qualified resident of the San Joaquin School District to fill an existing vacancy on the Tustin Union High School District Governing Board."

The letter was signed by W. G. Staples, President of the Board of Trustees of the San Joaquin School District.

Staples' letter explained the request in the words "We believe that such an appointment would be in the best interest of both school districts.

"Our enrollment of elementary school pupils is expected to reach the 5,000 mark in 1967-68," states the letter. "Of this figure, approximately 800 pupils will be enrolled in grades seven and eight. Such growth will continue and even increase. Similarly, Mission Viejo High School will grow rapidly in its number of students.

Citizens Group Presents Names to H.S. Board

By Carl E. Venstrom
Editor and Publisher

"We recommend that Chet Briner or Mrs. Ruth Dicks or Roger Howell replace the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Mildred Windolph," requests a group of interested citizens of the Tustin Union High School Governing Board.

This recommendation was the outgrowth of a meeting of 19 interested citizens from the Mission Viejo, El Toro and Tustin areas who met last Thursday evening in the El Toro Woman's Club on El Toro Road to discuss their ideas on making recommendations to the Governing Board of the Tustin Union High School District on seeking area representation.

Jeff Lodder, chairan of the Mission Viejo Homeowners Assn. Steering Committee which is presently structuring the organization, acted as chairman of the citizen group, assisted by Chuck Waltman, of El Toro, who is President of the Aliso Valley Homeowners Assn.

The group appointed Lodder and Waltman, with possibly a representative from the Capistrano Highlands Homeowners Assn., to attend last Monday's night regular meeting of the Tustin Union High School Governing Board and make their recommendation of desiring the board to consider the appointment of either Briner, Dicks or Howell to replace the board vacancy left by Mrs. Mildred Windolph.

This newspaper went to press before Monday night's board meeting. Results of any action taken will be presented in next week's edition of the RANCHO REPORTER.

Briner, Dicks and Howell all have children presently in high school and all have records of public service in the community.

The combination meeting of citizens from Mission Viejo, El Toro and Tustin was the outgrowth of last week's meeting of various different groups in Mission Viejo and El Toro with the same purposes in mind. Waltman suggested the different groups meet together and that Lodder, of Mission Viejo, be chairman.

Record Summer Enrollment For San Joaquin Schools

"We are currently having the largest summer school enrollment in the history of the San Joaquin School District," reported Dr. William D. Stocks, assistant superintendent, to the Governing Board at its regular meeting last week.

"There are 689 students enrolled as of today and we will have more than 700 before the week is out," said Stocks.

Ralph A. Gates, district superintendent, reported that the O'Neil school in Mission Viejo, presently under construction, is progressing nicely and is on schedule.

The Board gave approval of the working drawings for the new La Paz Intermediate School to be constructed in Mission Viejo. Gates said he is hoping for construction to start on the school this fall.

The Board also gave approval for the final filing under Public Law 874, which authorize payment to the school for dependents of military personnel.

Charges for lunches for school children for next year is presently under consideration by the board. The board, after its official meeting, went into closed session on a personnel matter.

Stocks also reported that a total of 78 teachers have been hired for next year. Nine have been hired since the June board meeting.

Captain Smith Resigns From San Joaquin School Board

Capt. J. D. Smith, USN, quietly submitted his resignation as a school board member to the Governing Board of the San Joaquin School District at the close of its regular meeting last week.

Reason for his resignation is that Smith is being transferred from El Toro.

"I have enjoyed my association with the Board," said Smith, "and it is with regret that I must leave for my new duties." He said that his work with the board has not been easy since there have been many problems due to rapid growth. And the problems will continue, said Smith, but it has been interesting to work with a board that faces up to the problems as they come.

Board President W. G. Staples accepted Smith's resignation with regret and wished him the best in his future work.

RANCHO REPOR ednesdays to residents of El Toro,
Irvine, Laguna Hil University Park areas

EDITORIAL:

Enjoy El Toro and the Ranches

Hey, kids, dads, and moms, enjoy the pastoral scene of El Toro and Trabuco while you can! The experience will be Southern California history within a few years.

Across the freeway from El Toro is a sophisticated, multi-million dollar complex that is making housing history and is called "Leisure World."

Two miles to the South of El Toro is a planned, modern housing area called "Mission Viejo" which has been the leader in the nation at selling homes during the past year. The whole community of Mission Viejo is planned: housing, shopping center, schools, churches, streets, parkways, and recreation.

Part of El Toro is new and the homes and parkways are neat. But part of El Toro, and the surrounding farming area, is old with a grand history. The ranchers still drive pickups to the post office and wear genuine cowboy boots. This is the last of unplanned environment and should be enjoyed.

In downtown El Toro one finds youngsters on horse back -often without a saddle. A short drive to Trabuco -- during a summer week day -- is a drive into the past of California.

Enjoy the area -- NOW.

1967 Aloha Queen Crowning Opens Orange County Fair Tues., July 25

The 1967 Orange County Fair in Costa Mesa, will run from Tuesday, July 25 thrugh Sunday, July 30.

Twenty girls, each representing an Orange County community, have been entered thus far in the 1967 Aloha Queen Contest. This year's Aloha Queen will be chosen on the opening day and reign over the Fair for the six days it is open.

Visitors to the Fair this year will be able to take a simulated space journey aboard an actual-size model of the Mercury Spacecraft. This is only one of the many attractions scheduled during the six-day run.

A rodeo, livestock show, amusement rides, and many eating areas highlight the Fair this year.

The full-scale Mercury mock-up is part of a special exhibit brought to the Orange County Fair for the first time by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Visitors may enter the spacecraft and embark on an imaginary trip through space, aided by descriptive narration and motion pictures taken in space flight.

Tickets for admission can be purchased at the gate and there will be entertainment for all members of the family. The Fair grounds are located between Fairhaven Rd. and Newport Blvd.

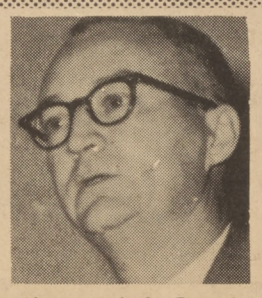
BLUE CHIPS...

INFLATION VERSUS COMMON STOCKS



Last week's column discussed common stocks and the cost of living. Based on the statistics given in that article, it was quite obvious that a common stock investment has, historically, been a good hedge against inflation.

This week, a little booklet crossed my desk, providing some most interesting facts on the subject of common stocks and inflation. I would like to report some of these facts here.

The booklet lists, among other things, 500 common stocks. It shows the value, on January 2, 1967, of a ten thousand dollar investment in each of those stocks made ten years earlier. It also reflects the dividends that an investor would have received had he invested ten thousand dollars in the stocks on January 2, 1957.

These are not random selections, but represent five hundred leading companies in the United States.

Here are the salient points: Out of the 500 companies, 472, or 94.4% would have provided the investor with a profit. Twenty-eight, or 5.6% would have resulted in a loss if the investor had held them for the entire period. In nineteen cases, the dividends received, alone, amounted to more than the ten thousand dollars invested. In 219 cases, the ten thousand dollars grew to an excess of twenty thousand dollars in addition to the dividends that were paid.

The range of growth, for the profitable investments, again not counting dividend payments, was from seventy-five dollars to $701,000. (A ten thousand dollar investment in Xerox, on January 2, 1957, was worth $711,000 on January 2, 1967).)

Dividends were paid by all but six of the five hundred companies. Without dividends, the profit to our hypothetical investor with the ten thousand dollars in any of these six companies varied from $3,391 to $257,388.00.

An earlier column reported the investment philosophy of one of our most successful investors. If he picked the wrong stock, he would sell it with a small loss. If he picked the right one, he would stay with it as long as the price increased. You can readily see what the potential has been, using that philosophy, during the period 1957-1967.

REFLECTIONS...

THE PEACE MARCHERS

These days the newspapers are full of news about the peace marchers, protesters, sit-ins, and free speech rallies. We Americans tend to react toward these rather emotionally. Instead, we should be attempting to understand the very nature of these vexing symptoms of our social disorder or order.

I wonder how many Americans know that it was Henry David Thoreau (1817-1862) who first gave expression to the idea of Non-violent Protest or Passive Resistance. It was he who refused to pay taxes to a government concerned in slavery and war. Of course he was arrested.

His ideas flowered beautifully when these were used by Mahatma Gandhi of India. The idea of passive resistance was powerful enough to drive out the British might from India and destroy the great British Empire for good.

The interesting aspect of the Indian experiment was the complete adherence to the principle of non-violence and the existence of an undisputed leadership. Gentleness and humility ensured not only a moral victory but a most cordial relationship between India and Great Britain after the withdrawal.

Now that the idea of passive resistance has traveled back to its own birthplace, we should study its latest picture. Firstly, it lacks an indisputed leadership. There are too many Carmichaels and Martin Luther Kings.

Secondly, there is no consensus as to the goal. Whereas Thoreau did not like slavery, Gandhi fought for freedom, American protesters can't make up their minds. Civil rights, Vietnam war, sexual morality, academic freedom or free speech are some of their gripes. They really cannot fight for liberty and justice for all as our Constitution also is fighting for those goals.

Thirdly, the insistence on non-violence has been forsaken. Too many street burnings, draft-card burnings, flag burnings, and stone throwings are the hallmarks of our peace marchers. Under these conditions, how can one expect a nominal success for these leaderless, confused and violent peace marchers!

"Self-Styled King Makers Serve Notice"

Dear Carl;

Hardly had Mrs. Windolph announced her retirement from the TUHS board after years of dedicated service than the self-styled King making establishment served notice it wanted its man to replace her. No consideration is given to the desires of the electorate or to a concept of fair representation. Rather the specious argument is raised that the runner-up in the last board election should be appointed, that this is fair.

The winners in the last election each received something like 7% of the registered votes. Neither of them received anywhere near a majority of the votes cast. The runner-up received even less. Now how in the name of common sense can anyone conclude that this kind of vote constitutes a mandate to any of the successful candidates, much less the runner-up.

The voters in the southern part of the TUHS district want and should have their area representative. There are several good people from the Mission Viejo district who have demonstrated their qualifications by participating in and studying, the recent tax override problems which faced us. They worked tirelessly with the CEAG to achieve passage of the override last month. They know and are interested in the conditions of the TUHS district.

We have heard much talk, some from the present board members, about area representation and a seven man board. I suggest it is now time for action.

Very truly yours,
C.A. Papp

A Hearty Thanks

Dear Mr. Venstrom:

I feel a word of public gratitude is in order for those officers and members of the Capistrano Highlands Homeowner's Association who are responsible for the parade and picnic staged July 4. Their dedication and tremendous efforts resulted in a day of exciting activity for all who participated, young and old alike. And not the least important of the by-products of the celebration was the spirit of community engendered by neighbor working and relaxing with neighbor. From one of the beneficiaries of their work, a hearty "Thanks."

"Appreciative"

Dear Editor:

We've been meaning for some time to drop a line to let you know how much we enjoy and appreciate your paper. We feel it is not only entertaining but also very valuable to the community.

We hope everyone is aware of the very real service you are providing in keeping us well informed on all events affecting our community.

We are especially impressed by your constructive and progressive editorial attitude. It is so refreshing to see a newspaper take the initiative in favor of things rather than against everything.

Because of the vast influence that a newspaper has on a community, we feel that in your paper our new and growing area has a real edge over many other communities in the county who have been conditioned into negative thinking by their news media.

To show our support we would like to take advantage of your offer to become a 'charter subscriber."

Please keep up the good work; the week wouldn't be complete without the Rancho Reporter.

Sincerely,
Sue and Chuck Waltman

"Exaggeration"

Dear Editor,

There was little justification in Roshan Sharma's over exaggerated column, "Higher Education in America."

He implies that Americans are pre-occupied, and relatively unconcerned regarding an alleged crisis on college campuses. I contend, however, that the situation he describes is one of the most over publicized, and over dramatized aspects of American life.

Agreed that the unfounded college riots have consistently failed to offer solutions to the problems they protest. Granted that there exist many college students who possess far from noble motives for obtaining a degree. Why then the supposedly misrepresented common man rely on these obviously deranged individuals to meet his ever expanding needs? Is he too incompetent or unambitious to take steps toward fuller representation in our intellectual society?

On the contrary, I hold that for every misguided college "infiltrator" there can and does exist a truly well-rounded, common American pedant. One whose genuine love of learning will spur ideas and achievements that sufficiently overshadow the childish college misadventures of lesser individuals.

SHIPS ...

PRINCESS ITALIA ...

Up to last year, only one ship was operating cruises to South of the border, the Princess Patricia. Obviously, business has been good, since the Princess Line now has a new ship, the Princess Italia in this service. A larger ship, the Princess Italia carries 480 passengers, all first class. Rooms have shower and toilet for the most part and full cruise prices start at $450 -- up to $1350 - per person to Mazatlan and Acapulco. A total of 12 cruises are scheduled for this winter starting December 15 and ending May 17, 1968.

SS STATENDAM ...

This is a lovely ship known for its fine cuisine and good accommodations. For the first time and, at the request of many, this gracious lady of the sea, the Statendam, will sail on three different cruises from Los Angeles to Mazatlan, Manzanillo and Acapulco. Sailing dates are Dec. 5, Dec. 18 and Dec. 30. Price varies according to your destination. Remember - superlative Dutch cuisine and service!

MTS JASON ...

A newcomer and one of importance, the Jason is brand new and, to quote the New York Press, "A luxury ship from stern to bow and from top to bottom," with wall-to-wall carpeting, piped-in individual music, fully air-conditioned with individual controls in each room, all of which have private shower and toilet. A very beautiful ship and undoubtedly a fine one on which to sail, the Jason is of Greek registry and has been chartered by a local Los Angeles firm, Unitours, for an exclusive program of cruises to Acapulco plus a grand cruise all the way to San Salvador. So let's go and visit in style our Central American Latin amigos. If you want to be among the first to sail on the Jason, Unitours offers a Caribbean Cruise which originates in St. Thomas Nov. 30 and terminates in Los Angeles. Prices range from $715 - $995 per person for the Mexico cruises.

DR. J.C. FIKES, El Toro's Residence Center Director for Chapman College, reported this week that there are presently 258 students attending the first summer session on the El Toro Marine Base. The second summer session -- running for five weeks -- will start on July 24 and run through August 25. 157 civilians from off the base are attending the classes as well as 101 marines. All accredited classes are offered on the El Toro Marine Base with Dr. Fike's headquarters in the Education Center. For more information on the program call 832-2568. Staff photo.

Chapman College Readies For Second Summer Session

By Carl E. Venstrom

The Chapman College Residence Center ad read "don't waste another summer ... enroll now for summer courses at Chapman College on the El Toro Marine Base."

And 258 students -- marines and civilians -- did just that and presently are one week away from completing the first five week summer session offered by Chapman College on the El Toro marine base.

The second summer session -- running for five weeks -- will start on July 24 and run through August 25. All classes are accredited college transfer courses and fulfill the requirements for the A.B. or M.A. degrees.

Dr. J. C. Fikes, residence center director for Chapman College with offices in the Education Center at the Marine Base, said this week that a variety of college courses are being offered for the second summer session.

The classes cover from freshman courses, upper division and graduate courses, said Fikes. "Although the original plan was to bring college courses to the Marines many civilians have taken advantage of the course offerings here at the Base," said Fikes.

For more information concerning the program students are encouraged to call 832-2568. Counseling is available by Dr. Fikes at the Education Center on the Marine Base.

Shopping With Jan

By Janis Venstrom

The UCB Master Charge has caught on, in and around the Mission Viejo shopping centers. It works on the same principle as the Bankamericard, but I have found that the Master Charge is more popular in our area. More of the new shops are offering Master Charge service in place of other charge services. An application can be picked up at almost any of the stores in the La Paz Plaza, including your UCB in Mission Viejo. More than 60,000 merchants and service establishments throughout California will honor your Master Charge card within a few weeks.

'Monsterous' Trout Lurking In Depths of Irvine Lake.

Loch Ness, Scotland, may be the only lake with a monster, but Irvine Lake has something that is as exciting to the local anglers, and one of them is going to catch it, predicted an old-timer.

Fishermen reported "One or more very large trout are breaking lines and creating some very high blood pressures."

The heavy trout planting is still going. The total trout plant for the season is now 80,299 pounds. The trout action is in deep water and more trolling is being done every day.

The top trout, a three pounder, was netted by Rodwill Michael of Huntington Beach. Cheese was the bait. Many two, and two and a half pound rainbows made the competition close.

Channel catfish and a number of blue gill are also being taken.

Rancho Players Perform Before Capacity Crowds

The Rancho Players' first full-length production, "Dear Ruth," played to capacity audiences last weekend at Mission Viejo High School in Laguna Hills.

"Previous commitments of cast members prevented us from holding the show over another week, as much as we would have liked to," reported Players President Judy Mayer.

Set in New York during World War II, the romantic comedy featured Jean deVries, Lois Peretti, Terryl Boodman, Richard Springer, Olga Warrack, Gary White, Sr., Joe Maran, Gerri Egan, Clark Farrell and David Noll. At the helm was director Herman Boodman, for many years associated with the Footlight Theatre in Torrance.

"Plans for future Players' productions have not been completely formulated," related Mayer, "but, we do have some exciting things in store."

Anyone interested in Rancho Players' activities can call Membership Director Jan Gordon at 837-8210.

Local Kiwanis Members Hear Howdyshell On Americanism

Keith Howdyshell, of the Corona del Mar Kiwanis, was the guest speaker at last week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Laguna Hills - Saddleback where he spoke on "Americanism."

Howdyshell, in his speech before the local audience, traced the writing and delivery of the Gettysburg Address by President Lincoln, and stressed the great humility of the American president.

The speaker said "on the eve of July 4 it is well to pause in reverence of our great American heritage and not to take it for granted."

The Kiwanis Club of Laguna Hills - Saddleback was recently formed to care for members outside of Leisure World. The new organization will be officially chartered on the evening of July 22 in a ceremony taking place at the Newporter Inn with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8.

Officers of the newly formed club include Maury Ramsey, president; Bill Wells, first vice president; Joe Carthey, second vice president; Bob Perdue, secretary and Dick Deichert, treasurer.

The Kiwanis of San Clemente extended an invitation to the local Kiwanis to attend their breakfast to be sponsored on July 15 and July 16 at the Albertson's Food Center in San Clemente. Charge for the breakfast is $1 per person and two children for $1.

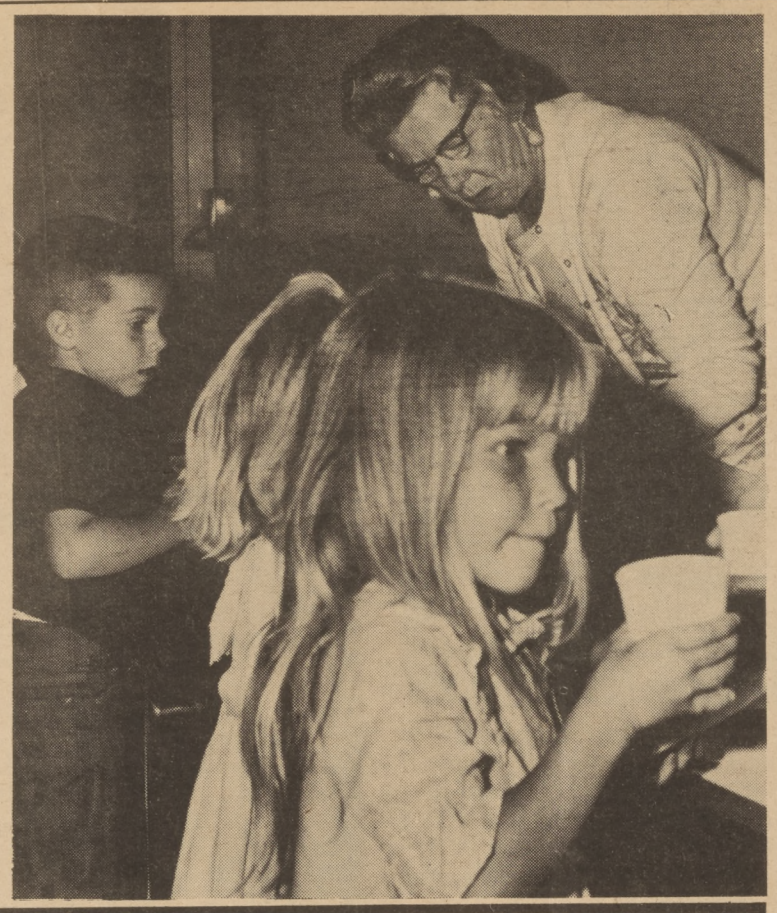
It's Recess Time!



"It's recess time and the goodie line starts here..."

Under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Heddens, superintendent, 50 children from the El Toro-Laguna Hills area enrolled in the morning sessions which concluded last week. Instruction was given in Christian Education, handicrafts, music and games.

"Both parents and teachers were pleased with the program," said Mrs. Heddens. The Rev. E. J. Caldwell is the local minister of the church. There were eight teachers involved in the program.

Geneva Presbyterian Church Subscribes $100,000 Bond

It took just two hours the other morning for Leisure World residents to subscribe a $100,000 bond sale for the Geneva Presbyterian Church, now under construction.

From 9 to 11 a.m., the bonds were bought in $500, $1,000 and $5,000 denominations, with the final one disappearing just two hours after they were made available, according to Reider W. Franson, chairman of the finance committee of the Presbyterian Church.

The money will be used to build a balcony over the sanctuary that will hold an additional 200 persons. The sanctuary will hold 600 persons, the pastor, Dr. Edward J. Caldwell said.

Los Angeles Presbytery last week approved issuance of the $100,000. Notes will be issued with differing maturity dates and at six percent interest.

Last October, the local church conducted a successful $500,000 bond sale for construction of the new sanctuary.

First Capistrano Highlands "Kiddie Parade" Termed "Very Successful"

"The Fourth of July Capistrano Highlands Kiddie Parade was a real success," said Mrs. Paul Johnson, committee woman, this week.

Mrs. Johnson said 450 name tags were passed out and more than 150 children were in the parade in addition to adults. "The Spirit of 76"--composed of youngsters--led the parade along with a bright, red fire truck from the Laguna Hills Fire Department. Mrs. Dottie Goldfarb directed the "Spirit of 76" group.

The "Flying Saucer Float," said Mrs. Johnson, was a tremendous success. The float was made by Bob Steele, and featured a man from Mars. There were 40 bicycles in the parade in addition to 60 youngsters who walked. The Boy Scouts and the Indian Guides also took part. Following the parade there was a picnic, games and fireworks.

Five Applicants Under Final JC Consideration

The Board of Trustees of the Saddleback Junior College District reviewed five applications last week for the position of District Superintendent.

Louis Zitnik, executive secretary for the board, said the five applications were selected by a special screening committee from 56 preliminary applications.

Other Saddleback JC Board of Trustees members, in addition to Zitnik, include Board President Hans W. Vogel, Alyn M. Brannon, Patrick J. Backus and Michael T. Collins.

Better Washington Story Needed Says UPI Correspondent

By Carl E. Venstrom

"We are neither getting or telling the complete Washington story," said Al Spivak, Washington White House Correspondent for the United Press International, at the recent 29th Annual Editors' Conference which was held at Stanford University.

Carl E. Venstrom, editor and publisher of the RANCHO REPORTER, and Mike Wilde, editorial assistant, attended the weekend conference at Stanford where in addition to a speech by Spivak they heard reports from Fred Hoffman, military affairs editor of the Associated Press and a panel entitled "Report on Sacramento."

The annual weekend editor's conference is sponsored by the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

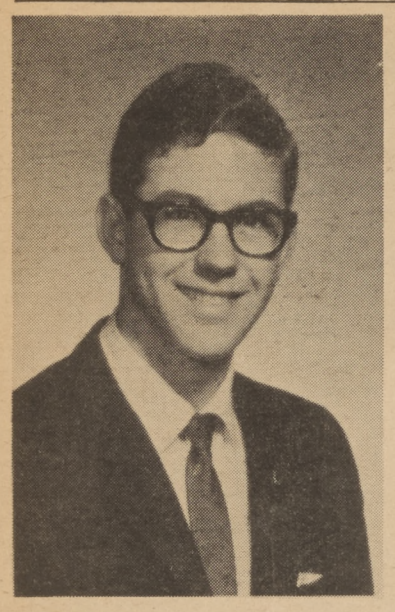
The panel "Report on Sacramento" included reports by Paul Beck, assistant director of communications, Office of Governor Reagan; DeVan L. Shumway, bureau manager, Sacramento, United Press International and Jack S. McDowell, political editor, San Francisco Examiner.

Shumway, of UPI, said "UPI's job is to tell what the governor is doing not evaluate what he is doing; the evaluation is up to the editorial writers and the people." McDowell, of the San Francisco Examiner, traced the political significance of Governor Reagan's tenure of office.

Beck, of the Governor's Office, said the Governor has a press conference every week and four interviews are set up for him each week. The Governor, said Beck, is available for TV coverage at the Capitol, airports and at banquets. Governor Reagan, said Beck, is also available to the people through his scheduled TV appearance where he gives his reports to the people.

Robert R. Metz, executive editor, Newspaper Enterprise Assn., was the guest speaker at the Friday night's banquet held at Rickeys Hyatt House in Palo Alto. Saturday lunch was held at the Stanford Faculty Club where Hoffman spoke. Social hours were sponsored by Sunset Magazine, of Menlo Park, and by Richard A. Litfin of the United Press.

Other panels and round tables were conducted by editors from throughout the state of California.



El Toro Man Wins Honors

In honor of David Schlueter's recent graduation from Tustin High School some members of the Abiding Savior Lutheran Church of El Toro recently surprised the young man with a "Tree of Money."

A live tree--which will be planted on the new Lutheran church grounds on El Toro Road--was trimmed with blue stars and red hearts, which had money hidden under the boughs.

Young Schlueter, upon graduation, received a scholarship to the University of California at Santa Barbara, the Bank of America Award, the National Merit Scholarship Society Award and the Orange County District Superintendent's award.

He is presently working as a box boy for Alpha Beta in Laguna Hills. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Orville W. Schlueter of El Toro.
